DEVELOPMENTS IN WORLD COTTON TRADE

World cotton trade declined by almost a quarter during 2008/09 to 6.4 million tons, the lowest level since 2001/02 and the sharpest decline since the Second World War. Reduced demand by major importing countries experiencing a major economic recession caused a sharp decline in cotton trade. World cotton imports reached a record of 9.6 million tons in 2005/06. It is projected that world imports could increase moderately to 6.8 million tons in 2009/10 as a result of demand improvement.

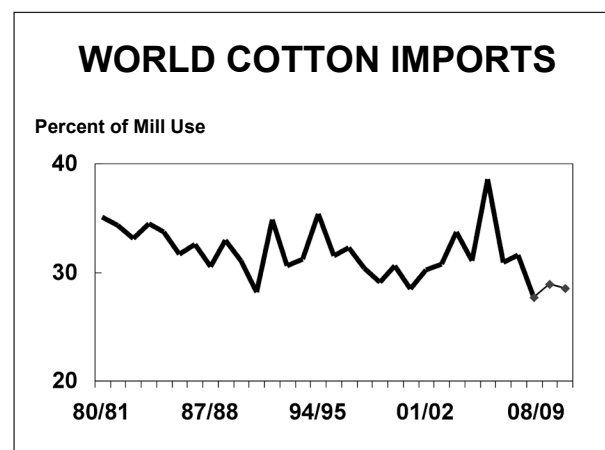

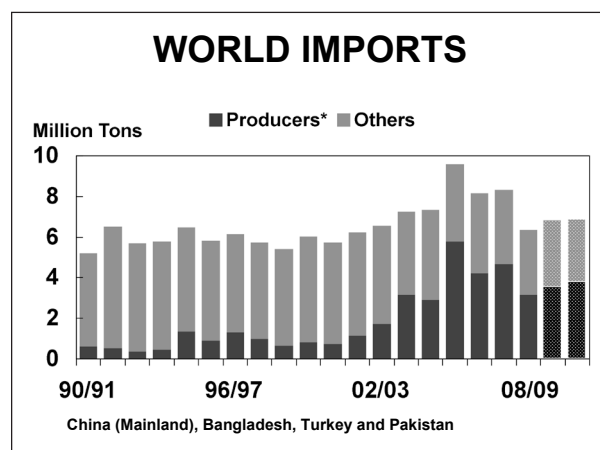

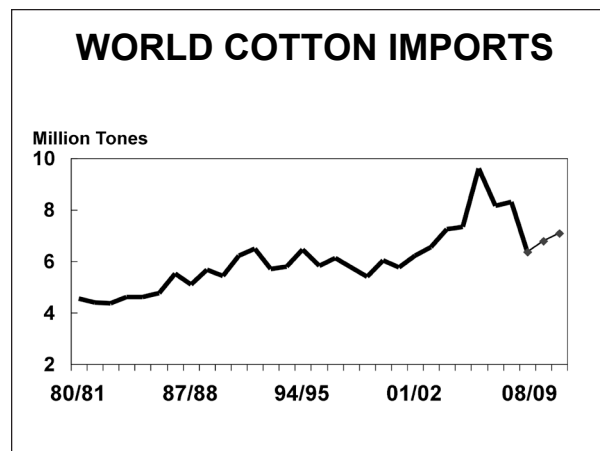

China (Mainland), Bangladesh, Turkey, and Pakistan, are the largest cotton importers accounting for 50% of the world total in 2008/09. World cotton imports were at 5.4 million tons in 1998/99 and the share of the four countries was at 12%. The four countries are projected to increase imports in 2009/10 moderately while their share in world imports is projected to increase to 52%. USA, Uzbekistan, Brazil, and India, were the largest exporters of cotton in 2008/09 accounting for 70% of world exports, and are projected to account for about the same share in 2009/10.

World imports as a share of world cotton mill use averaged 31% between 1998/99 and 2007/08, reaching a record of 39% in 2005/06 and declining to 32% in 2007/08. During 2008/09, because of rising stocks world imports as a share of consumption declined to 28% and are projected at 29% in 2009/10. World exports as a share of world cotton production averaged 32% between 1998/99 and 2007/08, reaching a record of 38% in 2005/06 and declining to 32% in 2007/08. A smaller share of world production, estimated at 27%, was traded internationally during 2008/09, resulting in larger stocks. The share is projected to reach 29% during 2009/10. The shares of trade to production and mill use have fluctuated since 1980/81 in a range between 27 and 39 percent, with a rare spike experienced in 2005/06.

Substantial changes in cotton trade flows occurred during the past decade. Industrial countries (North America, Western Europe, Australia and Japan) accounted for 28% of world imports and 36% of world exports in 1998/99. The decline in mill use in industrial countries, and the rapid expansion in Asia, led to a major shift in the destination of world imports. In 2008/09, industrial countries accounted for 6% of world cotton imports and 53% of world exports. The share of industrial countries in world imports is not projected to change during 2009/10, but the share in world exports is projected to decline due to expected large exports from India.

Asia became the primary destination for cotton shipments during the past decade. In 1998/99, Asia accounted for 58% of world mill use, 47% of world imports and 4% of world exports. In 2008/09, Asia accounted for 76% of world mill use, 69% of world imports and 10% of world exports. It is projected that in 2009/10, Asia's share of world mill use and imports will remain unchanged, while Asia's share of exports is projected to increase to 22%. In contrast, Africa's share of world mill use and exports declined during the last decade. In 1998/99, Africa accounted for 3% of world imports and consumption and 23% of world exports. It is projected that in 2009/10, Africa will account for 2% of world mill use, 3% of imports and 14% of world exports.

South America accounted for 8% of world imports and 6% of world exports in 1998/99 and is projected to account for just 3% of world imports and 4% of world exports in 2009/10. Compared with 1998/99, cotton production in South America in 2009/10 is projected to increase by 60% as a result of rapid expansion in Brazil originating in 2003/04. During the decade, mill use in South America rose by 20%.

Imports by China (Mainland) Decline Sharply

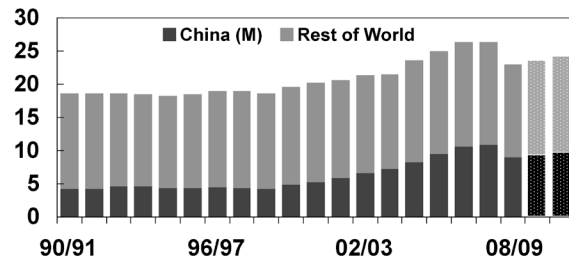

The world economic crisis led to a significant reduction in cotton mill use in China (Mainland) during 2008/09, resulting in larger stocks and a sharp decline in imports to 1.5 million tons (-1 million tons), or 24% of world imports. A projected small recovery in mill use in China (Mainland) in 2009/10 is expected to lead to a moderate increase in imports by 9% to 1.7 million tons, accounting for 24% of world imports.

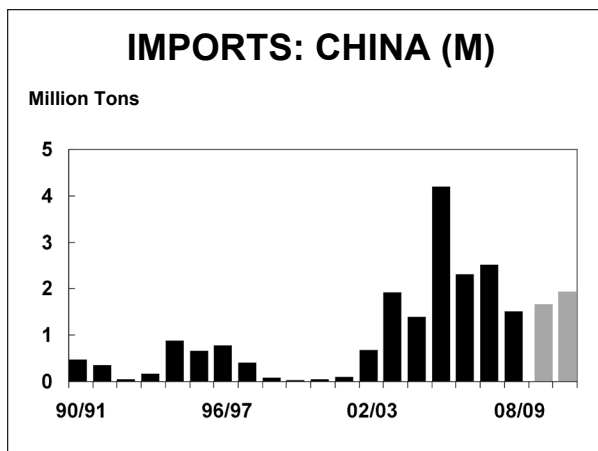

The rapid expansion of the textile industry in China (Mainland) was the major factor leading to record world cotton mill use and trade during the past decade. China (Mainland) accounted for 88% of additional world mill consumption of cotton between 2001/02 and 2007/08. China (Mainland)'s cotton production has been unable to meet the substantial increase in domestic cotton mill use, leading to large imports starting in 2002/03 and reaching a record 4.2 million tons in 2005/06, accounting for 44% of world imports.

In 2008/09, in order to support producers' prices, the Chinese government started directly buying considerable amounts of cotton. The China National Cotton Reserves Corporation (CNCRC) purchased a total of 2.724 million tons of cotton, or a third of estimated 2008/09 production. Government purchases of cotton in 2008/09 have maintained domestic cotton prices in China above international prices despite large domestic supplies. The Chinese government did not use the sliding-scale cotton import quotas in 2008/09. The annual 894,000 ton-quota associated with a 1% duty and agreed upon China's accession to the World Trade Organization was opened as expected on January 1, 2009. In June 2009, the government approved an additional quota for imports of 400,000 tons with no duty, for processing and exports of manufactured goods.

In 2008/09, China (Mainland) imported an estimated 900,000 tons from the USA (62% of the total), compared with 1 million tons (41%) in 2007/08. India was the second largest supplier of cotton to China (Mainland) during 2007/08, accounting for 826,000 tons (33%) of Chinese imports, but during 2008/09 imports from India declined sharply to about 130,000 tons (9%). Uzbekistan was the second largest supplier of cotton to China (Mainland) in 2008/09 accounting for 140,000 tons (10%) compared with 174,000 tons (7%) shipped in 2007/08. Africa accounted for 100,000 tons (7%) in 2008/09 compared with 264,000 tons (11%) of imports by China (Mainland) in 2007/08. Imports by China (Mainland) from Australia declined moderately in 2008/09 to 75,000 tons (5%) compared with 95,000 tons (4%) in 2007/08.

Indian Exports Decline the Most

India emerged as one of the largest cotton exporters in 2005/06, and by 2007/08 India was the second largest exporter with shipments reaching record 1.5 million tons (18% of world exports). Reduced import demand resulting from the world economic crisis and government intervention led to a sharp decline in exports from India to an estimated 400,000 tons. The government of India increased seed cotton minimum support prices (MSP) for 2008/09 by around 40% from last season for the main varieties. As a result, government agencies had purchased around 2.15 million tons of cotton lint, or a little over 40% of estimated 2008/09 production at the MSP. Because of the high MSP, Indian exports declined the most during 2008/09 compared with other major exporters, leading to a large build-up in stocks.

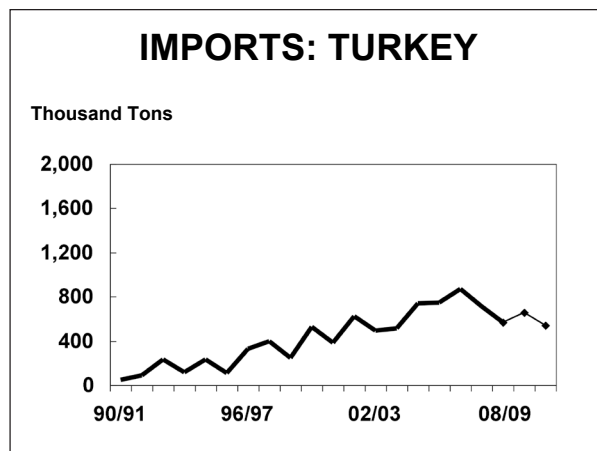

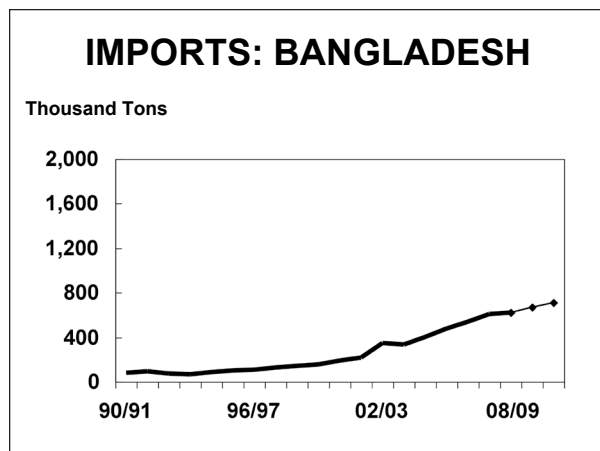

In India, favorable growing conditions, a low incidence of pests and diseases, increased planting of new higher yielding varieties and Bt cotton, improved crop management practices, increased cotton demand and relatively higher market prices resulted in improved yields, quality and increased area during the past several seasons. During 2008/09 however, growing conditions worsened leading to a decline in production.

Indian cotton production is projected to increase in 2009/10 to new records as a result of an expected rise in yields and area. India is expected to increase exports during 2009/10 to 1.4 million tons becoming the second largest exporter again. In 2008/09, about 130,000 tons of Indian cotton were exported to China (Mainland) accounting for 9% of Chinese imports (33% in 2007/08). Pakistan, Bangladesh and East Asia are the other major destinations for Indian cotton. India is expected to remain an importer of about 100,000 tons of mostly extra-fine and fine cotton varieties from the USA and Egypt in 2009/10.

Bangladesh Becomes the World's Second Largest Importer

The robust expansion of weaving and spinning in Bangladesh during the past several years continued during 2008/09 and led to significant growth in cotton import demand, making Bangladesh the world's second largest importer in 2008/09. In 2008/09, cotton imports by Bangladesh rose by 3% to an estimated 625,000 tons, accounting for 10% of world trade. With the projected introduction of new spinning mills in 2009/10, imports are expected to reach 670,000 tons, maintaining the 10% share of world imports. About 60% of imports originated from Uzbekistan in 2008/09 and 10% from India. Other Central Asian countries and Africa account for most of the rest of Bangladesh imports. Uzbek cotton has the largest market share in Bangladesh because of price competitiveness, short delivery times, and quality characteristics preferred by spinners. Cotton from Turkmenistan also gained market share during the past several seasons for the same reasons.

Imports by Turkey Could Rebound

Cotton production in Turkey declined during the past four seasons as a result of shifts in area to competing crops and appreciation of the Turkish lira in relation to the U.S. dollar. The trend is projected to continue in 2009/10 and Turkey will continue to depend on imports of cotton. Due to reduced mill use in 2008/09, imports by Turkey declined by 20% to an estimated 570,000 tons accounting for 9% of world imports, the third largest in the world. Cotton mill use is expected to stabilize in Turkey in 2009/10; however, smaller supply will lead to higher imports. In 2009/10, imports by Turkey are projected to rebound to 660,000 tons, or 10% of world imports. The USA remains the largest supplier of cotton to Turkey, accounting for 60%, while 20% came from Greece, 7% came from Central Asia, 7% from Brazil, and 3% from India. The high share of U.S. cotton in Turkish imports is explained by the importance of GSM-102 credit guarantees, actively used by Turkish buyers. Cotton Council International (CCI) and Cotton Incorporated (CI) of the USA run active marketing and promotional campaigns in Turkey.

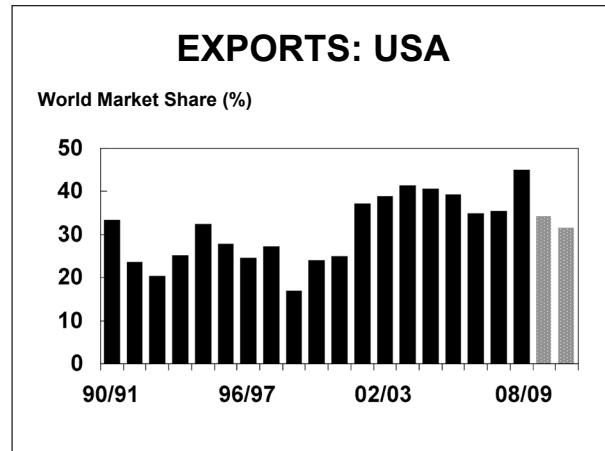

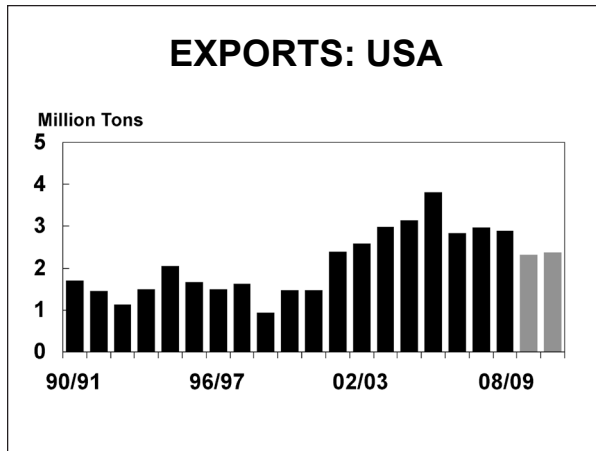

Imports by Pakistan Could Increase

Pakistan remains heavily dependant on imports as cotton production has some limitations such as a shortage of irrigation water. Cotton consumption in Pakistan has expanded since 1998/99 in response to export-driven demand for textiles and investments in spinning. During 2008/09, cotton mill use in Pakistan declined by 7% because of shortages in power and the world economic crisis. As a result, imports by Pakistan declined in 2008/09 by almost half to 450,000 tons. A projected increase in mill use in 2009/10 could lead to a rebound in imports to 550,000 tons, accounting for 8% of world imports. India, USA, Brazil, and Uzbekistan are the major suppliers of cotton to Pakistan. Pakistan remains one of the largest buyers of extra-fine cotton from the USA and Egypt.

Exports from the USA Remain High

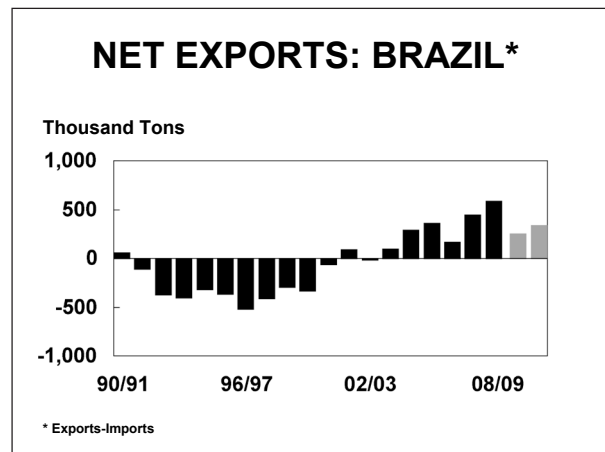

U.S. exports remained little changed during 2008/09, estimated at 2.9 million tons (-2.5% from 2007/08), despite a 33% decline in production. Near-record production during the past several seasons led to large exportable supplies in the USA. As a result, the stocks to use ratio (stocks to exports plus mill use) reached a high level of 55% in 2007/08. Large supplies of cotton in the USA in 2008/09 and smaller exports by other exporters, such as India, allowed the USA to maintain exports at a near record. In 2008/09, U.S. exports accounted for 45% of world exports. A projected decline in U.S. supplies during 2009/10 could cause U.S.

exports to decline to 2.3 million tons (-20%). China (Mainland) accounted for 30% of U.S. shipments during 2008/09. Other countries in Asia accounted for 40% of U.S. exports in 2008/09, almost the same as in 2007/08. Large shipments were made to Indonesia, Thailand, China (Taiwan), Pakistan and Vietnam. Turkey was the second largest destination for U.S. cotton in 2008/09, accounting for 14% of exports, while Mexico remained the third largest destination during the past two seasons, accounting for about 11% of U.S. shipments.

Brazilian Exports are Expected to Drop

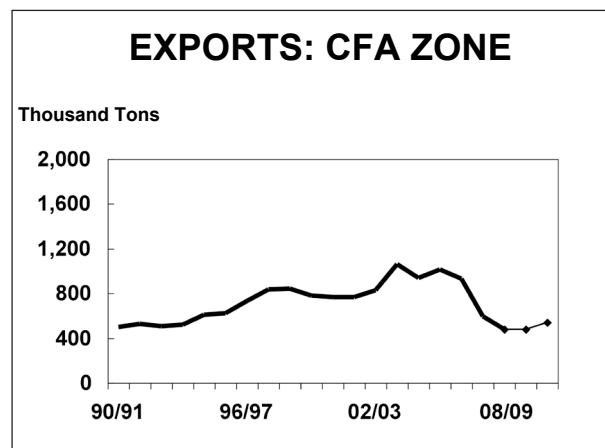

Cotton production in Brazil reached a record of 1.6 million tons in 2007/08 resulting in record exports of 600,000 tons during 2008/09. Brazil was the world's fourth largest exporter in 2008/09 after the USA, India and Uzbekistan. Cotton production in Brazil began to expand rapidly in 2003/04 because of new high yielding commercial production in central Brazil, including the state of Mato Grosso. During this decade, cotton mill use has remained relatively stable, resulting in a larger availability of supplies for exports. In 2008/09, cotton production in Brazil declined by 24% as a result of tight credit to finance inputs and competition by other commodities, especially soybeans. As a result, exports during 2009/10 are projected to drop to 260,000 tons. Indonesia, Pakistan and the Republic of Korea are major buyers of Brazilian cotton. China (Mainland) accounts for 8% of Brazilian exports.

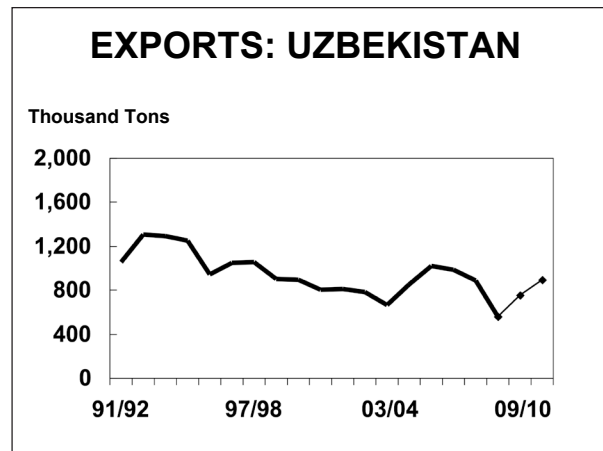

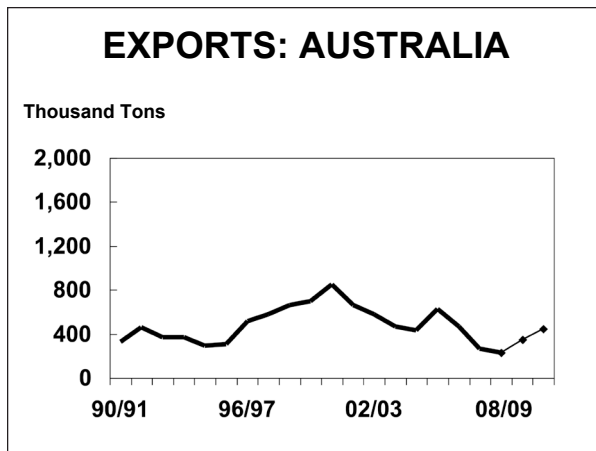

Exports from the CFA Zone and Australia Stabilize

CFA zone production declined steadily after reaching a record in 2004/05 mostly because of the appreciation of the CFA franc during the period, which is pegged to the euro, leading to a decline in prices received by producers. As the bulk of the CFA zone production is exported, the decline in production was directly reflected in exports. In 2009/10, exports from the CFA zone are projected almost unchanged at 480,000 tons or 7% of world exports. China (Mainland) became the largest destination for exports from the CFA zone during the past several seasons, accounting for about 40% of all shipments. Other countries in East Asia remain important destinations for West African cotton.

After several years of drought in Australia resulting in sharp declines in production and exports, weather improvements are leading to larger production in 2009/10. As a result, exports from Australia are projected to increase to 284,000 tons in 2009/10 (+33%). China (Mainland) accounts for 60% of exports from Australia. Indonesia and other countries in East Asia are other major destinations for Australian cotton.

Exports from Uzbekistan are Projected to Rebound

Smaller production and lower demand during 2008/09 led to a decline in exports from Uzbekistan to 560,000 tons (-35%). It is projected that improved demand could cause exports to increase to 760,000 tons during 2009/10. Bangladesh, China (Mainland) and Russia are major destinations for cotton from Uzbekistan.

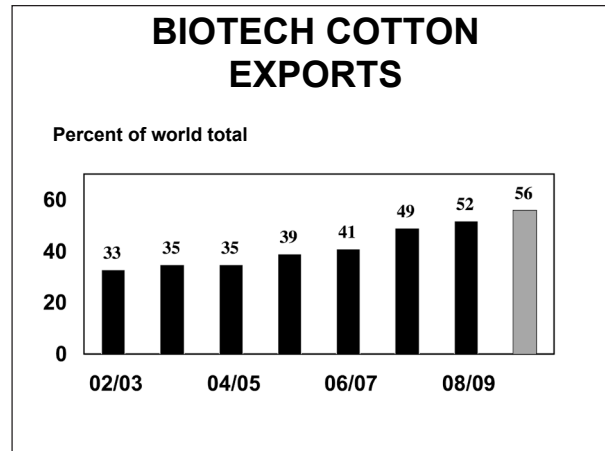

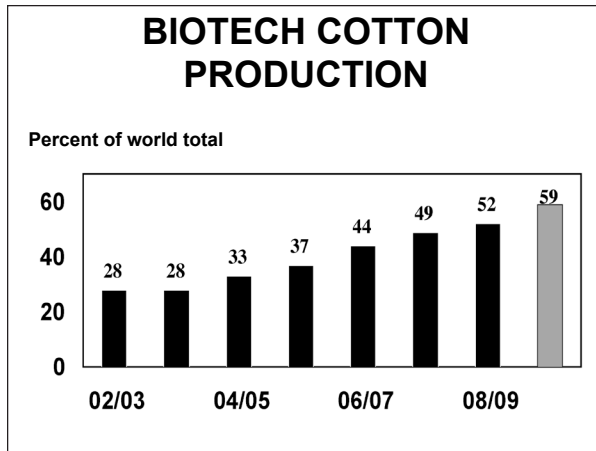

Larger World Extra-fine Exports are Projected in 2009/10

World extra-fine cotton production declined sharply to 430,000 tons (-42%) during 2008/09 due a decline in prices in 2007/08. Reduced production was accompanied by decreased demand for extra-fine cotton due to the world economic crisis. Lower demand resulted in a decline in prices, despite cuts in production. Smaller supply and demand resulted in a drop of extra-fine cotton exports by 74% to 145,000 tons in 2008/09. Because of low prices, production is not expected to rise during 2009/10, however some improvement in demand is projected to lead to a moderate increase in exports to 200,000 tons. U.S. Pima exports dropped from 180,000 tons in 2007/08 to 50,000 tons in 2008/09 and are projected to increase to 80,000 tons in 2009/10. Egyptian exports declined from 130,000 tons in 2007/08 to 40,000 tons in 2008/09 and are projected to increase to 65,000 tons in 2009/10. Similar trends are observed in exports of extra-fine cotton by Sudan, Central Asia, Israel and Peru. In contrast, Indian production and imports of extra-fine cotton remain stable.

Share of Biotech Cotton in Trade is Rising

Biotech cotton production and trade continues to expand. Based on officially reported data, biotech cotton accounted for 21% of world area, 29% of world production and 34% of world exports in 2002/03. In 2008/09, it is estimated that biotech cotton accounted for 52% of world production and exports. It is projected that biotech cotton will account for 59% of world production and 56% of world exports in 2009/10. World exports of biotech cotton are estimated based on the production shares of biotech cotton in exporting countries. The largest exporters of biotech cotton are the USA, India and Australia.

It is evident that the share of biotech cotton in textiles traded in all markets is rising and is estimated to exceed 50%. Despite an increasing share of biotech cotton being traded in the world, there are no price differentials for biotech and non-biotech cotton fiber or textiles containing biotech cotton. There is no evidence of rejection or price discrimination against biotech cotton by any segment of the market or region. In practice, markets do not identify biotech cotton content, but rather evaluate cotton properties based on quality characteristics.

Organic, Fairtrade and Cotton Made in Africa

During the past three seasons production and trade in organic and Fairtrade cotton rose significantly. According to the Organic Exchange, world production of organic cotton rose from 58,000 tons in 2006/07 to 146,000 tons in 2007/08 and could reach an estimated 225,000 tons in 2008/09, or about 1% of world cotton production. Organic cotton is produced in 22 countries with largest concentration in India, Syria, Turkey and China (Mainland). Tanzania, USA, Uganda and Peru also produce small quantities of organic cotton. Production of organic cotton exceeds demand, estimated by the Organic Exchange at 75,000 tons in 2007 and 93,000 tons in 2008. About 45% of organic production is traded internationally. Based on the Organic Exchange trade data, exports of organic cotton are estimated at 80,000 tons in 2007/08 and at 120,000 tons in 2008/09, accounting for less than 2% of world exports. The largest importer of organic cotton is India, accounting for about half of organic cotton imports. Other major importers are China (Mainland) (20%) and Turkey (10%).

Cotton is one of the commodities certified as Fairtrade by the Fairtrade Labeling Organization (FLO) based on their standard for sustainable production on fair terms for farmers and local communities in developing countries. The Fairtrade Foundation reported that in 2008 Fairtrade cotton product sales at the retail rose by 94% and reached 28 million units, valued at 176 million euros. Based on these data it is estimated that about 20,000 tons of Fairtrade cotton fiber was traded in 2008 to spinning mills, accounting for 0.3% of world trade.

Cotton made in Africa (CmiA) is another initiative supported by the German government and aimed at benefiting smallholder farmers. Benin, Burkina Faso, Mozambique and Zambia participate in the program. Total production under the CmiA reached 37,000 tons in 2008/09, all of which was exported.

* The top number in each row equals the quantity of raw cotton exporters report having shipped to each importer. The bottom number in each row equals the quantity importers report having received from each exporter. For example, in 1984/85, Argentina reports exports to China (Taiwan) of 20,730 tons; China (Taiwan) reports imports from Argentina of 19,740 tons. Imports may differ from exports for a given season because of time spent in transit, changes in the weight of cotton during shipment, transshipment through third countries and errors in record keeping.

1/ Data on exports by Paraguay and Zimbabwe during 1984/85 are not available.

* The top number in each row equals the quantity of raw cotton exporters report having shipped to each importer. The bottom number in each row equals the quantity importers report having received from each exporter. For example, in 1991/92, Argentina reports exports to China (Taiwan) of 10,360 tons; China (Taiwan) reports imports from Argentina of 1,230 tons. Imports may differ from exports in a given season because of time spent in transit, changes in the weight of cotton during shipment, transshipment through third countries and errors in record keeping.

* The top number in each row equals the quantity of raw cotton exporters report having shipped to each importer. The bottom number in each row equals the quantity importers report having received from each exporter. For example, in 2006/07, Australia reports exports to Japan of 35,920 tons; Japan reports imports from Australia of 34,040 tons. Imports may differ from exports in a given season because of time spent in transit, changes in the weight of cotton during shipment, transshipment through third countries and errors in record keeping.
